Correction to “Neurofilament light chain levels in cerebrospinal fluid as a sensitive biomarker for cerebral adrenoleukodystrophy”

In the originally published version of the article, the patient labeling in the Results section on page 6 was incorrect and this has been corrected as follows.

From:

Cognitive function deteriorated in two patients (patients 20 and 21), while it was preserved in the other two patients (patients 17 and 18).

To:

Cognitive function deteriorated in two patients (patients 20 and 21), while it was preserved in the other two patients (patients 18 and 19).

We apologize for these errors.
